Make it personal.

A note from someone you know is a good reason to come see a show.
Use the supplied words as a starting point.

Where to post

Facebook & community groups

Attach a feed or square graphic and paste your caption with the website link. Follow each group's posting rules.

Instagram feed

Use a feed or square graphic. Put the website link in your profile and end your caption with "Show details at the link in my bio."

Instagram Stories

Use a vertical Story graphic and add a link sticker to the show website. Label it "Show details."

Texts & group chats

Paste the short group-text caption and working link. A personal invitation is enough; an image is optional.

A simple sharing rhythm

Start here. Share one post with "The invitation" or "Meet Cinderacula" caption.

Share again. About a week later, use the story-hook or bring-friends caption with a different graphic.

Show week. Use the performance-week caption during the week of November 13–15. Invite a few friends directly if they haven't made plans.

Keep it yours. Add what caught your interest in the show, or ask a friend to come with you.

Photos. Use the supplied artwork, or share cast photos only with the theatre's and the pictured children's parents' permission.

Optional hashtags. #Cinderacula #TheatreInTheMountains
